The Hanging of Mrs. Bilansky, in St. Pau', Minnesota. THE FIRST PERSON EXECUTED IN THAT STATE -

PARTICULARS OF THE SCENE. We learn from the St. Paul Pioneer, of Merch 24, that this unfortunate woman was hanged on the 23d. The crime alleged against her was that of poisoning her busband on the 2th of March, 1859. Every effort had been made by her counsel to secure her acquittal but without. She escaped once from the hall of the jail, and after a weeks' absence was retaken with a person said to be her paramour. At the scaffold the following scene occurred. in the presence of about one hundred persons. among whom were a number of Dacotah or Sioux Indians. who had come to witness this exhibition of Christian civilization.

When the prisoner arrived upon the platform, she was led forward and kneeled upon the drop, the clergy, jailer, and the Sisters of Charity and other ladies in the same posture around her. About five minutes were then spent in reading prayers by the clergy, in which she seemed to take a deep interest. Upon rising she was asked if she had anything to say. She said:

"I die without ever having had any mercy shown me, or justice. I die for the good of my soul and not for murder. May you all profit by my death. Your courts of justice are not courts of justice—but I will yet get justice in Heaven. I am a guilty, woman, I know. but not of this murder, which was committed by another. I forgive everybody who did me wrong. I die a sacrifice to the law. I hope you all may be judged better than I have been, and by a more righteous judge. I die prepared to meet my God."

Dr. Miller, deputy sheriff, then approached her with the rope, when she exclaimed, "Dr. Miller, how can you stain your hards by putting that rope around my neck-the instrument of my death?" He assured her that duty compelled him to do it, and she made no resistance, and only that my face is well covered." All this took place in less time than it will take to read it, during which she said several times, "God have mercy-God have mercy on my soul." Her last words were, "Lord Jesus Christ receive my soul."

She was requested to take a step forward on the drop, and then, everything being prepared, Dr Miller made a motion to Sheriff Tullis, who pulled the fatal rope, and in an instant she fell. The fall was about four feet, and the machinery was so nicely adjusted that the noise was scarcely heard outside of the enclosure. There was scarcely any movement in the body after it dropped, a slight convulsive motion and a heaving of the chest, was all that

The body was allowed to hang about twenty minutes, during which time prayers were read

The physicians having examined the body several times, then stated to the sheriff that life was extinct, and she was cut down and placed in a plain black coffin that had been placed in front of the gallows during the whole period of the execution.

Her demeanor on the scaffold was excellent. She was not defiant or stoical, neither did she she expected a pardom or reprieve to the second The most disgusting feature connected with the affair, says the Pioneer, was the eagerness and persistency with which females sought to obtain eligible places to view the dying agonies of one of their own sex.

THE SHOEMAKERS' STRIKE - The correspondent of the Boston Traveler, at Haverhill,

The strike is dead here. The meeting of the strikers in the Town Hall, last evening, revealed the fact that the strike is about over. Mr. Hawley, president of the organization, came forward and addressed the meeting, expressing the deepest chagrin at the failure of the demonstration of yesterday, and declaring that the strike is fairly dead. He bitterly denounced the "scabs" who had abandoned him and the cause, after pledging themselves to stand firm, and concluded by resigning his post as Director of the movement. Mesers. C. C. Richardson, T. T. Salter, Scates, Winn, Mann, and others, addressed the meeting, expressing their deep regrets that the movement was destroyed, and denounced the traitors to the cause in terms of severity not to be easily exceeded. Mr. Salter moved that the strike be discontinued, which was negatived, the mo tion being informal. The motion, according to the terms of association, being required to lay over, a committee was raised to consider the matter and report to a meeting of true strikers next Saturday evening. Mr. Hawley and others stated as their opinion that not over fifty of the five hundred strikers are now out of employment, and it may be safely stated that with the exception of the first ten days of the strike, three-fourths of them have been employed at their own prices, or at good ad-

The failure of the strike does not end everything, an association of mechanics will be formed, for the purpose of controling their interests, which will result in good. The strike, though not entirely successful, has resulted in great good. First, it has advanced the price of labor; second, it has benefited the manufactor. of labor; second, it has benefited the manufacturer, by lessening the supply and stimulating the trade, by means of which a surplus stock has been cleaned out; third, it has laid open a better prospect for business than has existed for several years; fourth, it has awakened thought upon the subject of organization for the protection of labor. It manufacturers are discreet and moderate in their operations, the business may be made remunerative to themselves and their workmen for a long time.

SINGULAR VERDICT BY A CORONER'S JURY. An inquest and post-mortem examination was held on the body of Destrick Meinz, the proprietor of a saloon in St. Louis, who fell sud dealy dead while engaged in a quarrel on Monday. There was nothing elicited from the examination of the body to denote the cause of the man's death. From the testimony adduced before the Coroner, it appears that the deceased, his wife, and a man named Crutzman (who delivered himself up Monday) were engaged in a quarrel. Meinz and his wife heat Crutzman over the head with a club; Crutzman broke loose from them and rap. while running he picked up a billet of wood and threw it at Meinz, who immediately fell dead: the wife and Crutzman did not see the wood hit Meinz. The verdict of the jury was that Meinz came to his death from emotions of anger. Crutzman, who was held on the charge of murder, was properly discharged.

DEATH OF AN AMERICAN CONSUL.—John E. Taylor, Esq., a native of Philidelphia, where he was well-known as an accomplished and skillful shipmaster, died January 27th last, in the fifty-third year of his age, at Sierra Leone, west coast of Africa, where he was acting in capacity of American consul. What makes this intelligence more painful is the departure of Mrs. Taylor, on the 24th ult., by bark Aaron J. Harvey, from Philadelphia, to join her husband.

A SLANDER CASE .- The Crockett Printer, mys: Mr. T. P. Collins, a merchant of that place, published a scandalous piece of poetry about a Miss Whitwell, a school mistress. She sued him for $6,000 damages and gained the case. The jury returned the verdict at midnight. Another John Brown Raid-The South Forcwarned

[From the Pittsburg Dispatch.] It seems to us incredible, after the disastrous results of the Harper's Ferry invasion, that any set of men, however radical in antislavery sentiments, should contemplate a like incursion into the slave States with the intention of inviting insurrection. Such men must know that not only the municipal authorities are on the alert, but that the people of the free States will sternly frown upon any attempt to disturb the social affairs of any State.

That such rashness is contemplated, however, we regret to say is more than probable. Indeed, we have the epen declaration of Jas. Redpath, an intense anti-slavery man, and the biographer of John Brown, that the perilous experiment of Harper's Ferry will soon be re-peated. In a speech made by him at Jefferson, Ashtabula county, Ohio, on the 23d of March, he declared the intention of his own camp-followers in the following language. As he is one of the men who second their words by their acts, the Southern States should be on the alert for an immediate incursion:

"Aaron D. Stevens is dead. His brave life was choked out of him for presuming, without asking Senator Mason's permission, to believe in the Declaration of Independence, and, thus believing, for still further daring (to use his captain's word) 'to put that thing through;' or, in the words of God, as rendered by Isaiah, for attempting to 'Proclaim Liberty throughout the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof.' Many of you knew him; shall he die in vain and unavenged?

"To those of you who are friends of the slavemen whose hearts are too large to be suffocated by the dust raised by party mountebanks, and whose gaze is too steady to be dazzled by the glare of the false and fatal splendor of the despot's court. To those of you who are ready to imitate Stevens this only need be said: 'Be Minister Plenipotentiary of the Miramon Government at Madrid.'' prepared; bide your time; ere long you will be called.' For I tell you, men of Asht abula, the strangling of John Brown was not the death of this cause, and that, ere many more moons revolve, the slave will be offered succor again. Six months before the blow at Harper's Ferry, solemn warning to set his house in order, for his doom is pronounced, 'He shall die and not live.' Money will be needed to execute these plans of liberation. Those of you who approve it may aid it by your money.

> APRIL FOOL DAY IN BALTIMORE. - An advertisement appeared in a morning paper of Saturday, stating that the ordinance of baptism would be administered to thirty persons by the Rev. Elder Ives, of the African Baptist Church, of Richmond, Virginia, on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, in Jones' Falls, near Belvidere bridge. In consequence, a large number of respectably dressed males and females wended their way to the supposed scene of immersion, some as early as 91 o'clock. They stationed themselves on the most prominent positions, extending from Eager street knowing ones passed from group to group of expectant sight-seers, laughing in their sleeves at the successful joke played on so many persons. There were about eight hundred persons thus deceived. Some of those present had anticipated considerable pleasure in the sight, and had engaged three or four carriages to convey them to the spot. One of those in the secret, in order to excite more interest, especially as the spectators were beginning to surmise that they had been hoaxed, about eleven o'clock sent a large Newfoundland dog into the stream, for the purpose as alleged of re-covering the body of one of those who had, while being baptized, suddenly drowned. A large crowd instantly collected around the shore, and waited with considerable anxiety for the appearance of the animal with the body, but they were again deceived .- American, of Monday.

THE SUNDAY LAW REGARDED IN BALTIMORE .-The American of Monday morning, says: "The recent prompt and decisive action of Judge Bond, of the Criminal Court, in relation to the Sunday fiquor law, had the effect yesterday of suspending the traffic, and with the exception of three or four parties, of closing the taverns and barrooms. The proprietors who determined upon an open disregard of the law were kept very busy during the day and night, as their establishments were crowded with parties, some of whom declared they had walked for miles through the city in the hope of finding a tavern open. The general result was a very quiet day, but few persons being seen on the street intoxicated. In Frederick street, where used to congregate hundreds and thousands of men, women and boys for the purpose of quating the teutonic beverages with sundry hunks of Limeburger cheese and pretzels, s arcely a dozen persons were to be seen. The twenty odd lager beer shops of the vicinity were all closed.

ANECDOTE OF SWEDENBORG.—The famous GEORGETOWN ADVERT'MTS Emanuel Swedenborg was visited for the first time with those visions of celestial agents which have been so much talk of, on the day on which he was to sail from England to his native country. During the voyage, the captain of the ship often observed him arranging chairs upon the upper deck, and apparantly conversing with some invisible beings. Upon inquiring the reason of his conduct, Swedenborg informed him that some of his celestial friends designed to visit and converse with him. The captain took no further notice; but, upon his arrival, charged Swedenborg for the passage of his friends. He was now reduced to the dilemma, either to deny the visits, and contradict his former assertions, or pay the money. He preferred the latter, and the captain was perfectly satisfied.

EMANCIPATION OF THE RUSSIAN SERFS -A letter from St. Petersburg, in the Universal German Gazette, states that in certain governments the opposition of the nobles to the emancipation of the serfs becomes more and more decided. In that of Waldimir a great number of nobles have signed an address to the Emperor, praying that, as a compensation for what they will lose by the emancipation, civil equality shall be established between all citizens, and that trial by jury, liberty of the press, and other liberties shall be accorded. "This," says the letter, "is perhaps acting rather hastily; but it cannot be denied that there is a certain degree of logic in the demand of the Russian nobles that emancipation shall not be confined to the serfs."

The Herald has the following: "A letter from Madrid, dated March 5th, to L'Agence d'Havas, says the Spanish Government had decided on taking Tangier, and holding it until at least they could be assured of the conclusion of an honorable peace.
